

Learner Interaction and Self-Regulation in Web-Based Professional Development Summary:

Authors: Massa, et al

American Society for Engineering Education (ASEE) – June 2005

In this paper, we present the initial results of an ongoing study in which we examine the relationships among learner interaction, self-regulation and learning outcomes in an online teacher/faculty professional development program for technology educators.